

Pictures

JPEG passed through undecoded; PNG decoded, with transparency kept.

JPEG — the file's own bytes, undecoded

PNG — decoded, re-deflated, alpha as a soft mask

The tinted page is behind both. A PNG's transparency becomes a soft mask rather than being flattened onto white, which is why the disc has no square around it — and why a cut-out logo can sit on a coloured band.